BECAUSE OF YOU

2013-2014 ANNUAL REPORT

BRITISH COLUMBIA & YUKON

A person wearing a dark jacket is seen from the side, standing in a field of dense green evergreen trees. The background is a soft-focus forest. In the bottom left corner, there is a decorative pattern of white dots of varying sizes.

“ Cancer is always going to be a part of my life. I choose to embrace that and do something positive with it. The Canadian Cancer Society was there for me and my family. Now it is my turn to give back. ”

Heidi Hayes, 15, survivor of acute lymphoblastic leukemia, raises funds for and awareness about the Society's research, information and support programs.

Our impact continues

Today, over 60% of Canadians survive cancer compared to 25% in the 1940s. We're proud of our role in this progress and we know we couldn't do it without you. Without question, as a supporter of the Canadian Cancer Society you've had a major impact on the lives of people affected by cancer.

As a donor or volunteer, your generosity helps fund life-changing research and prevention strategies as well as much needed cancer information and support. You have made it possible for us to be there for Canadians living with the disease.

The stories contained here are just a small sample of the many people, places and things that help the Society have more impact, against more cancers, in more communities, than any other cancer charity in Canada.

2013 saw many important achievements in research, including several BC researchers who received awards for their ground-breaking work. The Cancer Prevention Centre is positioned to lead the way in cancer prevention research, policy and programs and we are more confident than ever that this national resource will help stop cancer even before it starts.

Our commitment to improving the quality of life of those living with cancer continues — more than 23,400 people received practical and emotional support from the Society in 2013. We delivered education, information and advocacy about the risks of smoking and tanning and the benefits of healthy eating, getting active and knowing your body. We embraced the diverse communities across BC and the Yukon and have worked hard this year to develop inclusive programs so our message can reach all British Columbians.

The Society is very fortunate to have volunteers, staff and donors who are dedicated to our goal of preventing cancer, saving lives and supporting those living with the disease.

The fight against cancer isn't over. But, because of you, we are making a meaningful difference in the fight for life. Thank you for your continued support.

“ This job may increase my risk of breast cancer. I hope my part in this study will help future shift workers. ”

Renee MacCarron, paramedic, participates in a Society-funded study that looks at how improving sleep patterns may help prevent breast cancer.

A Focus on Prevention

The Canadian Cancer Society continues to take the lead in cancer prevention. By investing your donations in research, health education, community action and advocacy, the Society is focused on stopping cancer before it starts.

2013 Highlights

The Cancer Prevention Centre, a partnership between the Society and the University of British Columbia, continues to build a network of researchers, community and healthcare organizations to accelerate prevention research, policies and practice and raise awareness about cancer prevention. Recent projects led by the Canadian Cancer Society Chair in Cancer Primary Prevention Dr Carolyn Gotay include studies into the connections between sleep patterns and increased risk of breast cancer, tobacco reduction programs for new fathers and updating national obesity map data. For more information about these and other initiatives, visit cancerprevent.ca.

WellnessFits, a free comprehensive workplace wellness program that offers businesses and organizations resources and the support they need to create healthy workplaces, is now in its third year of operation. It was accessed by more than 217 businesses in 2013, effectively doubling our reach. The program, a partnership with the Ministry of Health, can be scaled to any workplace and many helpful tools are available free online, with support only a phone call away. Visit wellnessfits.ca.

Our health promotion teams were active across the province in 2013, reaching 247,500 people with a variety of risk reduction initiatives. Our Tanning is Out initiative provided sun safety information to young people throughout the summer while our “My One Thing” initiative encouraged people to start making simple healthy lifestyle changes.

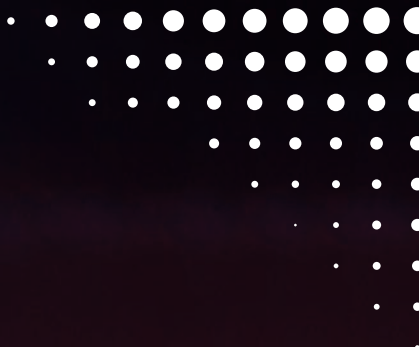

In 2013 we expanded our advocacy work with governments to include a call to ban flavoured tobacco. These products, in candy flavours like cherry and grape, are targeted at young people. You can read more about our position here.

This work is a natural extension of our continued focus on tobacco regulations and smoke-free outdoor spaces.

“ We were completely overwhelmed by the support, emotion and friendship we found at Camp Goodtimes. ”

The Harbaruk family from Kamloops, BC are eager to return to Camp Goodtimes next year.

Facing Cancer? We Can Help.

The Society continues to be a trusted source of cancer information and support. When people are facing cancer, they turn to our range of compassionate support services that offer practical and emotional help for cancer patients and their families.

From the magical experience at Camp Goodtimes to one-on-one support from CancerConnection volunteers, to up-to-date treatment information through our Cancer Information Service at 1-888-939-3333, to free drives to treatment and a safe, affordable place to stay, support is at the heart of everything the Society does.

2013 Highlights

Camp Goodtimes gave 452 children with cancer and their families an unforgettable, empowering summer camp experience at Loon Lake in Maple Ridge, BC.

The trained information specialists of our Cancer Information Service provided personalized, reliable cancer information by phone and email in 2013, answering 7,430 inquiries.

Our CancerConnection volunteers provided compassion and support to over 1,000 people living with cancer in BC and the Yukon.

Together with the Freemasons, the Society's volunteer drivers provided rides to 3,945 clients in 2013, taking cancer patients to treatment centres in Vancouver, Victoria, Kelowna and Prince George.

The Society's four lodges in Vancouver, Victoria, Kelowna and Prince George provided a home away from home for 5,680 cancer patients undergoing cancer treatment in 2013. The Kordyban Lodge in Prince George completed its first year of operation.

Funding Life-Saving Research

Today, thanks in part to investment in research, over 60% of Canadians will survive cancer. That's compared to 25% in the 1940s. Research funded by the Canadian Cancer Society is making a tremendous difference in the lives of cancer patients and their families.

The Society's donors have helped to fund a breadth of research — from prevention, improved detection and safer treatment, to after-cancer care. In 2013, the Society funded more than $38 million in research and close to 385 projects in Canada. Projects in the BC and Yukon made up $6.2 million of that investment and several BC researchers were recognized with awards of excellence for their innovative work.

2013 Highlights

Dr David Perrin's research in positron emission tomography (PET) scanning and the development of a new compound to improve imagery to make the scans faster and more accurate at detecting cancer quickly became a highly cited paper in Nuclear Medicine and Biology in August 2013.

Dr Shoukat Dedhar was awarded the Robert L. Noble Prize for outstanding achievements in cancer research. A world-class researcher with a 30-year career in the areas of cancer biology and cell communication, Dr Dedhar's recent focus on mechanisms of metastasis led to the discovery that the enzyme CAIX contributes to cancer cell survival and is a promising cancer therapeutic target. Read more here.

Dr Andrew Weng was awarded the Bernard and Francine Dorval Prize for 2013. The award is given to a promising, young Canadian investigator making outstanding contributions to basic biomedical research. The contributions have the potential to lead to, or have led to, better understanding of cancer, improved cancer treatments, cures or new advances in cancer control. You can read more about Dr Weng here.

“ Computer-aided drug design is taking the guesswork out of treatment. We know what we’re looking for, we develop what we need, and bingo. ”

Impact Grant recipient, Dr Artem Cherkasov’s research leads the way toward a future of personalized cancer treatments. Read more.

“ You play an important role in our efforts to reduce cancer and improve the quality of life for people living with this disease. We couldn't do it without you! ”

Barbara Kaminsky, Chief Executive Officer,
Canadian Cancer Society BC and Yukon

Volunteers in the fight for life

Canadian Cancer Society volunteers are critical to our accomplishments and the Society wouldn't be able to support, inform and empower those touched with cancer without them.

The Society offers volunteers a great opportunity to make a positive impact in their community, to learn new skills, develop lasting friendships and make a real difference in the lives of people with cancer.

Volunteers are often the lifeline to those we serve, by helping deliver practical and emotional support in communities large and small across BC and the Yukon.

2013 Highlights

More than 15,000 volunteers shared their skills and enthusiasm with the Society in 2013.

The Society improved our Volunteer Engagement Framework by redesigning our online volunteer portal to be more user-friendly.

The annual Canadian Cancer Society Impact Awards recognize impact, innovation and excellence among our volunteers. The awards are the highest honour the Society can present to an individual or group. This year's Medal of Courage went to Barbara Tremblay (pictured) for her work with CancerConnection. Other awards are listed on our website here.

Sirf Dus, or "Tell 10", a volunteer-run campaign that began in 2012, continued to encourage open dialogue about cancer in the South Asian community in 2013. Volunteers shared information about screening at events and through social media.

“ I want to be there for others to give hope and information from my first-hand experience. ”

Barbara Tremblay received the Society's Medal of Courage for her role as a CancerConnection volunteer.

Donors giving courageously

The Canadian Cancer Society has many dedicated donors across BC and the Yukon. In 2013 more than 142,000 people donated $33 million to the Society.

We are immensely grateful to every individual who shows their support by making a gift — whether through fundraising at events or by giving online, through the mail, in memoriam or in honour of a lost loved one, or through corporations and foundations.

2013 Highlights

The Asian Giving Program celebrates 20 years in 2014. To date, the volunteer-driven committee has raised over $7 million for the Society. The Asian Giving Committee organizes a number of events each year and focuses on reaching out to the Asian community. These events include a telethon and the Miss Chinese (Vancouver) Pageant, both in partnership with Fairchild Media Group, the Gift of Hope Gala Dinner, Charity Toy Sales, and Daffodil Month.

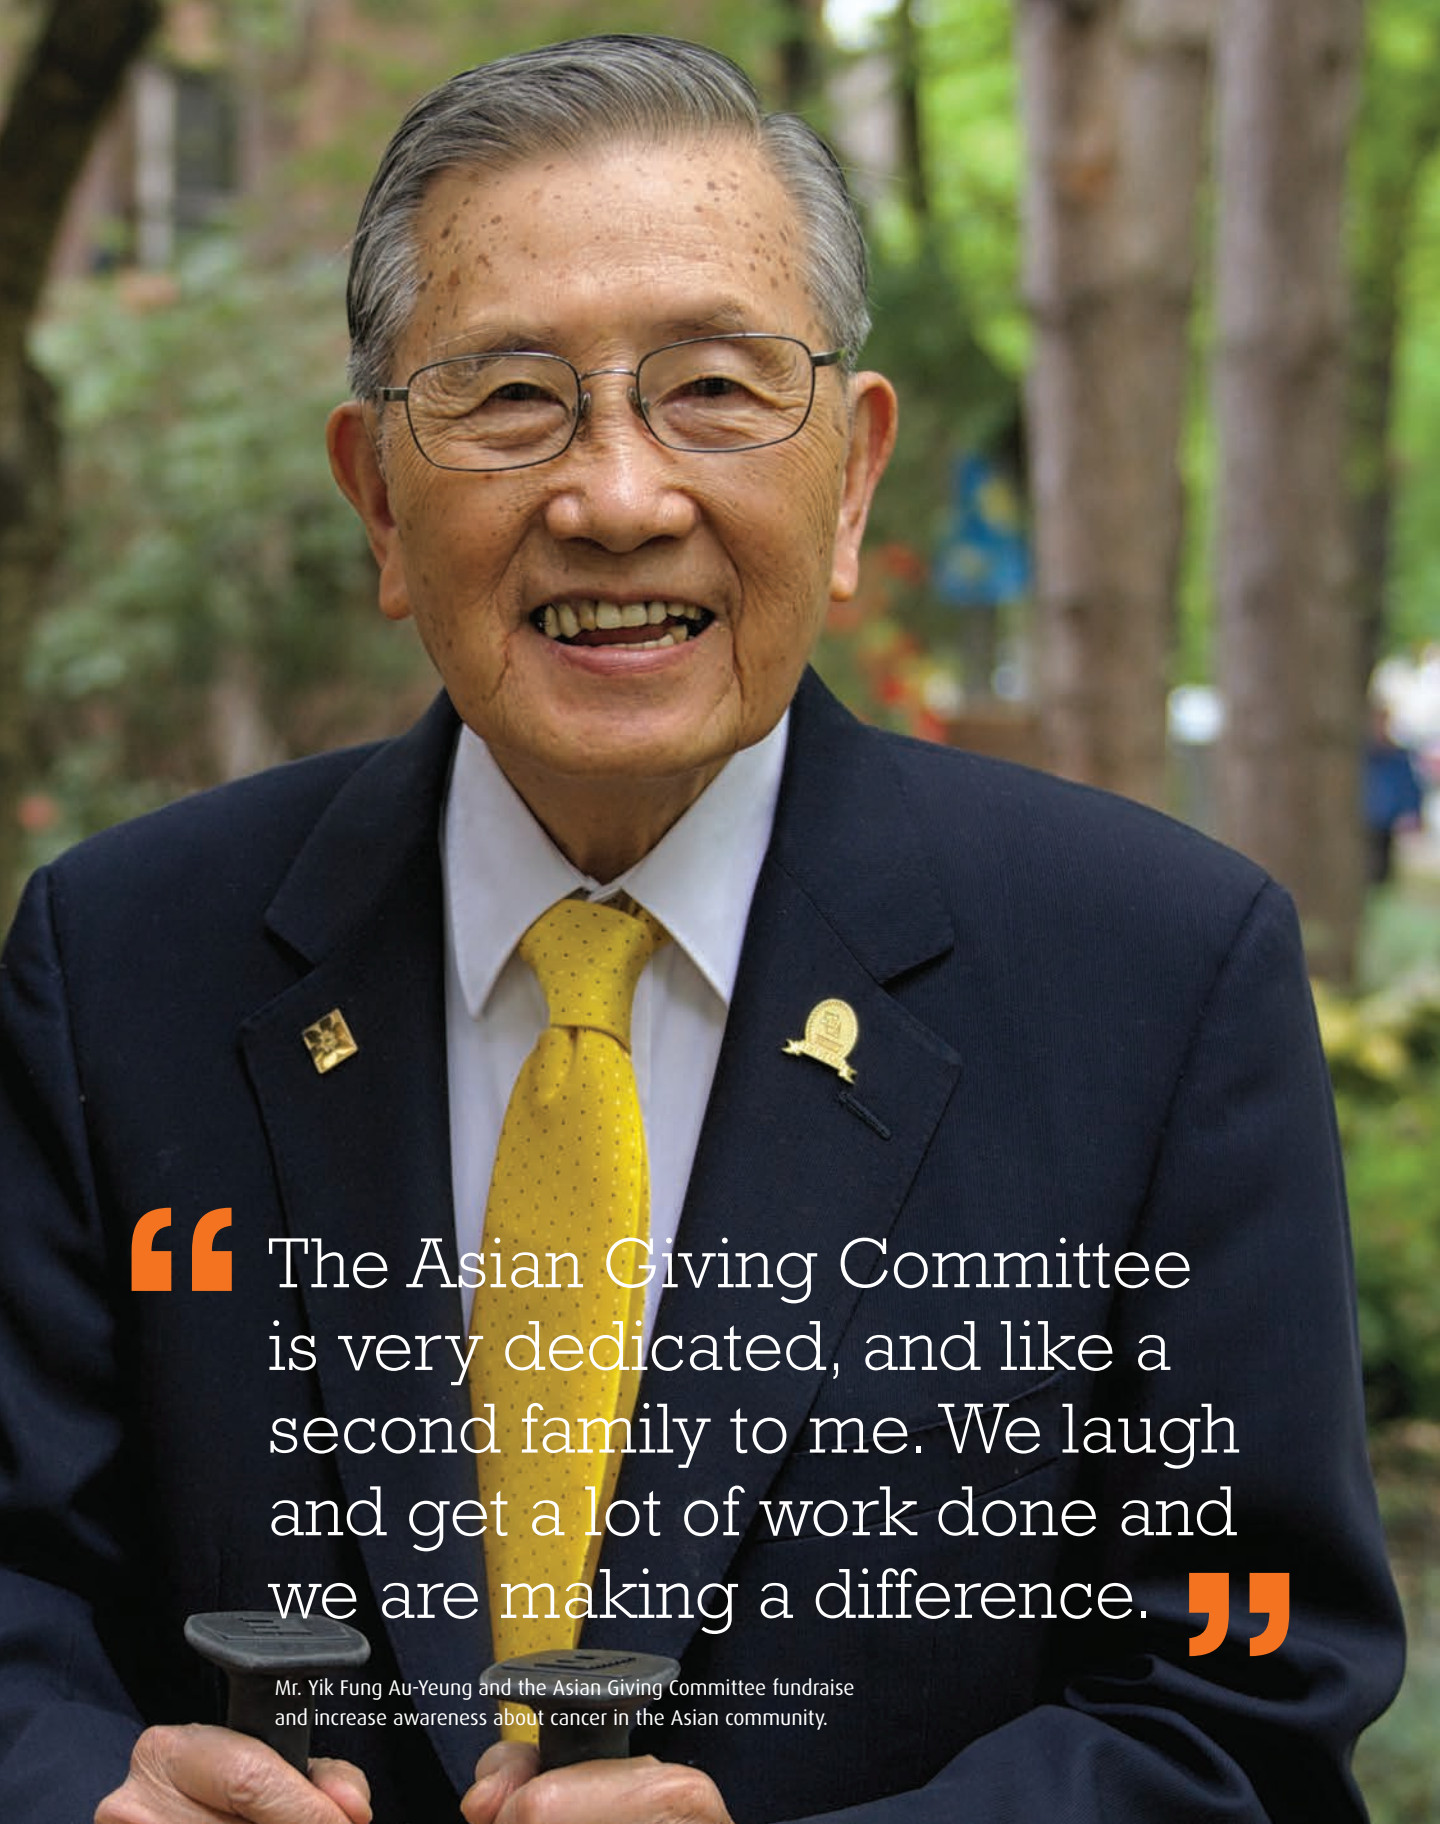

In 2013, many generous donors gave nearly $6 million in planned gifts. Their memories will live on through their caring legacies. In addition, our donors have committed $52 million in future planned gifts.

Our signature event, Relay For Life raised over $4 million in 2013. Over 11,850 participants came together at 49 events across BC and the Yukon to celebrate, remember and fight back.

April is Daffodil Month and 2013 saw an increase in pin sales and retail partners across the province as well as $5 million raised toward support services for those living with cancer.

Cops for Cancer, the community-based event with police officers and emergency personnel biking a challenging long-distance trek for the fight against cancer raised $2.4 million in 2013.

“ The Asian Giving Committee is very dedicated, and like a second family to me. We laugh and get a lot of work done and we are making a difference. ”

Mr. Yik Fung Au-Yeung and the Asian Giving Committee raise and increase awareness about cancer in the Asian community.

Change depends on YOU

The Canadian Cancer Society's donors are committed, generous and united with us as we do everything we can to prevent cancer, save lives and support those living with cancer.

The Canadian Cancer Society provides the most meaningful opportunities to make the biggest difference.

Whether you choose to show your support financially or through donating your time as a volunteer, we appreciate all that you do. We hope that you will continue to give courageously in the years ahead.

We would like to extend our heartfelt thanks to everyone who has supported us in 2013.

The Society extends special recognition to the following donors for their generosity as well as to those who prefer to remain anonymous. Consider making a donation today.

Attendee at our popular Daffodil Ball enjoys the festivities in Vancouver while helping to raise over $2.16 million in 2013.

Thank you to our donors

Financial highlights

For the period February 1, 2013 to January 31, 2014

We are pleased to present our Statement of Financial Activities for the year ended January 31, 2014 with comparatives for the year ended January 31, 2013. With every dollar we raise, the Canadian Cancer Society tries to make as big an impact on the fight against cancer as we can. As a result of our strong financial position and diversified fundraising activities, we are able to make significant investments that we know made an impact and that will help to change cancer forever.

This year we raised over $35 million, with over $29 million coming from our many fundraising initiatives. We were fortunate to receive two large and generous donations — a $2 million major gift from an anonymous donor and $1 million from the BC Government. Our many community fundraising campaigns like Relay For Life, Cops for Cancer and our Daffodil Campaign continue to generate excitement, awareness, and community involvement.

These dollars provided us the opportunity to invest additional funds for CCSRI research grants, the nationwide prevention strategy and the Cancer Prevention Centre (CPC). We also welcomed our first clients into our newest lodge in BC — the Kordyban Lodge in Prince George. From last year, we increased spending on programs, research and advocacy to just under $23 million — an increase of $3 million or 15%.

In addition, we were able to invest into our future revenue generation by funding start-up costs for our Nationwide and CPC fundraising campaigns. These campaigns will raise significant dollars with the vision of developing a Cancer Prevention Centre of Excellence. We will draw together expertise in prevention research, policy development, advocacy and programs to work together, inspire change, and have greater impact sooner.

We realized a small surplus of $84,000 including pledge installments still being received for the Kordyban Lodge capital campaign. In our operations, we undertook some planned spending from our reserves to achieve these outcomes and to make these important investments. We remain in a healthy financial position and are committed to raising funds as efficiently as possible and spending these dollars to make a big impact in communities throughout BC and Canada.
